IRRIGATORS HOT AFTER DATA ON NEW MEXICO

Albuquerque Souvenirs Made
Great Hit—Convention
Largely Attended.

"I never saw so many people calling for literature telling of the resources and lands of New Mexico, as I saw during the National Irrigation congress while I was here," said W. S. Strickler, who was present for several days at the congress as one of the delegates named by the Commercial club of this city.

Mr. Strickler returned to his home in this city after several weeks spent in California.

Colonel R. E. Twitchell, Santa Fe attorney at law, accompanied the delegates to the congress, and he was assisted by H. B. Holt, of Las Cruces, O. C. Snow, who was present with Mrs. Snow from their Mesilla Park valley home, J. D. Tinsley and S. P. Stewart also of Mesilla Park. The other delegates from New Mexico also worked hard for this city.

The little Mexican sombrero sent to the congress by the local commercial club as souvenirs from Albuquerque, were in demand and nearly every delegate wore one pinned to his coat lapel or held one in his hand. The little hats were vote getters for Albuquerque.

The interest shown in New Mexico by the thousands of visitors at the congress who came as spectators and delegates, was a big advertisement for this territory. The people kept up a constant stream of inquiries about lands in New Mexico, asked for descriptive literature and in every way showed that they looked to New Mexico as the land of opportunities as it is.

Robert E. Wilson, traveling agent of the industrial commission, had charge of the publicity and display end of the congress and he knew his business in every way. He told the people what they wanted to know, supplied them with a never ending stream of literature and illustrated booklets and arranged the displays in a pleasing manner.

The Santa Fe railway had a fine display from this territory and it aided greatly in bringing the next congress to Albuquerque.

Mr. Strickler said that the many people he met always showed a keen interest in this territory and particularly our agricultural possibilities were asked about in detail.

Charles V. Fairbanks, the vice president of the United States, was accorded a hearty welcome by the congress and visitors. The fact that the sixteenth irrigation congress will be held in this city is certain to advertise New Mexico and her resources more than anything in recent years.

Following is one of the irrigation congress data which made a hit:

The Irrigated Region.
O. Glorious Land! O. Glorious Land! The land of homes for the homeless; of shepherd flocks and herds; of the land where the green-walled thickets are choral with songs of birds; where the ancient furrows, silver streamlets are redrawn; where slopes once arid lie teeming with wealth of vine and corn. The land of sunny spaces, the land of leafy glades, leafy glades; of the faith that sees in the desert the promise of verdant blades. Where fruits purple crimson and golden roll forth from plenty's horn; where souls of noble fealty, of diviner mood are born; where on glimmering heights gleam fair regenerate years, read in crystal stream of water the transparent globe of seers.

USED SHEEP SHEARS AS A WEAPON

Felipe Aguirri, charged with threatening Antonio Tafaya Peraltia with a pair of sheep shears Saturday night, was brought before Police Judge Craig this morning, but owing to the incompleteness of the testimony the case was continued until this afternoon when Officer Rossi, who made the arrest, can appear. Peraltia said that Aguirri and a companion followed him home in the north Fourth street district Saturday evening and wished to enter his house. He told the men to go away, saying they had no business around his place. The men left but returned at about 10 o'clock in the evening with a woman named Clara Cisneros, whose child they said they were after. Peraltia was in bed and got up and ordered the intruders from the house. Some angry words were exchanged and it was then that Aguirri pulled a pair of sheep shears from his hip pocket and threatened Peraltia, according to the testimony of the latter. Aguirri denied that he even spoke to Peraltia, let alone threaten him with shears.

WHEN WE GET VAUDEVILLE.

Several feeble attempts have been made in this city as in all others to establish a vaudeville house, but all were in vain because not founded upon a legitimate basis and not being a link in the indispensable chain of supporting houses as is the well known Crystal. Vaudeville is the new form of general amusement and it has come to stay because it embraces every form of amusement as a combination of all other desirable elements of other salads. Its aspect cannot grow monotonous as does drama, opera, comedy and other forms, because it is bounded by no lines or limits, and is capable of any form or variation of forms.

One does not care to sit all through a long, tiresome play offener than once, yet one may enjoy the same vaudeville bill over and over again. It often happens that single act is worth the price of admission and of several visits. The Crystal works upon the idea that every act upon the bill should be considered alone worth the price of admission.

This company is a syndicate composed of the men who originated the idea of popular priced, continuous vaudeville, Edward Ackerman, William Weston and others. The Crystal is no experiment and will be the best attended thing in town.

DeWitt's Carbolicized Witch Hazel Salve is good for boils, burns, cuts, scalds and skin diseases. It is especially good for piles. Sold by J. H. O'Reilly & Co.

MATTING BERNALILLO COUNTY WITH TELEPHONES

Albuquerque Will Have Connections With All Surrounding Villages.

Manager A. D. Graham, of the Colorado Telephone company, has just returned from Corrales and Alameda where he has been engaged during the last two weeks in superintending the construction of a telephone line in that vicinity. The line is now completed and excellent telephone service can be furnished to all ranchers in that section. The central office is located at Bernalillo. Albuquerque merchants can now communicate direct with the fruit raisers of Corrales. This line will be of great benefit to both the ranchers and the merchants of the city in the purchasing and disposing of produce. This new line fills a long-felt want as the people of Corrales and Alameda have been clamoring for telephone service for a long time. The line would have been completed before, but owing to the work being projected in other sections, Manager Graham was otherwise too much occupied to take up the matter.

Work will soon be commenced on the line to Pajarito and Ranchos de Atresco which will give these places fair communication with Albuquerque. Mr. Graham says the farmers appreciate telephone service these days and that a large number are subscribing for telephones. He says that before he gets through he hopes to have a telephone in almost every house along the new lines.

ALBUQUERQUE WILL SEE DOUBLE HEADER NEXT SUNDAY

While the Browns are in Santa Fe next Sunday amusing themselves with the Santa Fe Centrals, Albuquerque fans will be given a double-header by the Socorro Blues, the Babels Greys and the Jeronimo Greens. The deal was made yesterday with Manager Cook, who was in the city from Socorro to see the Trinidad-Albuquerque games. The Blues will arrive on Sunday morning. The captains of the three teams will draw straws to see which teams play first and the team winning the first game will play the second game. The team lucky enough to miss having to play in the first game. Both games will be played for one admission and will doubtless draw a good crowd.

BROOKLYN LEAGUE VISITS ALBUQUERQUE

Easterners Seeing West in Quest of Knowledge—Capitalists Studying Conditions With View to Helping for Trade.

A special train consisting of six cars bearing thirty-eight members of the Brooklyn league, a business men's organization of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived in Albuquerque at 1:40 p. m. yesterday and stopped here an hour. This party left Brooklyn on August 15th and is scheduled to return on the 15th of this month after having visited the principal large cities and points of interest in the west. The purpose of the tour is to investigate the conditions and with the idea of acquiring knowledge which will be of assistance in making improvements in the city of Brooklyn, as well as to advertise that city in the west. Members of the league expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the sights they have seen and were particularly delighted with the climate of the southwest. Among the prominent Brooklynites traveling in the special train are John B. Creighton, secretary of the league, Edward H. Wilson, V. V. Meard, of the New York Central, George A. Price and W. V. B. Bennett.

ORA CUMBERSON SAYS SHE IS TO BE MARRIED

Marriage Set For November
—Chas. Hill Affianced
Bridegroom.

The girl known as Ora Rogers is not Ora Rogers but Ora Cumberston. She is the step daughter of W. H. Rogers, the proprietor of the Jemez Hot Springs hotel, and she says that is the reason why she doesn't want to live at home. She did not leave the city Saturday morning as she promised her step father she would, but remained in the city. She consented to change her room, however, from the residence of Mrs. Smith on John street to Hotel St. Claire.

She said last night that she might go home today, but she wasn't sure. "We don't get along at home, and that's why I don't want to stay there. I was at first told that my own father was dead, but now I am told that he is alive and in Los Angeles. I want to go to him. I am willing to go to Los Angeles."

After some coaxing Miss Cumberston acknowledged that she was engaged to be married.

"We were to have been married last month, but I had only known Charlie such a short time, I thought that he had better wait a while longer. So we have postponed it till November."

Miss Cumberston says that her affianced husband is Charles Hill. Mr. Hill formerly lived in Albuquerque and worked at the American Lumber company mills. He recently went to Las Vegas on business, and has not returned.

CAPACITY OF ROSEDALE MINE WILL BE INCREASED

Ore In Sight to Run 50-Ton
Plant Three Years—Cost
New Company $250,000.

L. R. Babcock, of Kelly, N. M., who just recently returned from the east where he went to confer with associates and buy mining machinery, was an Albuquerque visitor over Sunday.

Besides being manager of a large general store, Mr. Babcock is general manager of the Rosedale Mining and Milling company, owning the Great London and Rothschild gold claims at Rosedale, N. M. Associated with him are J. P. Worell and Geo. O. Dix, capitalists of Terre Haute, Ind. The company is capitalized for $500,000, and was organized for the purpose of buying and operating the Great London and Rothschild property, which was closed for two weeks ago or thereabouts. The former owner of the property was the W. H. Martin company.

The property is located near the camp of Rosedale, thirty miles south of Magdalena, and is an old property, having been operated on a small scale by the former owner for more than twelve years.

The new company intends enlarging the mine, and putting in new improved machinery. It is a cyanide proposition running about 150 to 200 tons. Mr. Babcock bought this improved machinery while in the east, to be delivered as soon as possible.

The two claims lay adjoining each other. A shaft is put down near the line and the property has been explored to a depth of 722 feet, with fourteen levels between the surface and the bottom, some of them as long as 550 feet. The ore comes from a true fissure vein and the ore bodies have been continuous as deep as the shaft goes. The vein will average from 6 to 20 feet in width.

"The machinery on the property when we bought it," said Mr. Babcock last night, "consisted of ten stamps and a crude cyanide plant with a capacity of seventeen tons a day. We propose to increase the capacity to 50 tons and supplement the old crude machinery with the most modern that can be bought. The old company, with its limited facilities, could only work the richest ore in the mine. We will work it all, and we will run through about 250,000 tons of tailing left on the dump. These tailings are still rich in gold."

"There is a three years run of dirt left in the mine for fifty ton plant and more for the digging. The vein can be followed on the surface clear across our property, and as far as the shaft goes there has been no indication of any break in it. In fact the ore is richer at the bottom of the shaft than at the top."

Mr. Babcock was in the city to have some expert dental work done on his son, who has a tooth with an abscess in it.

ROOSEVELT COUNTYFAST SETTING UP

J. W. Puckett, of Portales, N. M., is in the city with a view to securing 150,000 or 300,000 acres of grazing land for a large herd of graded cattle now being held in the vicinity of Portales. Mr. Puckett says that grazing land is fast becoming scarce in the eastern part of the territory. Roosevelt county is fast filling up with settlers. Mr. Puckett is a director of the First National bank of Portales, which is one of the sound financial institutions of the territory and is one of the prominent men of Roosevelt county.

SAN JUAN COUNTY HAS APPLES BY THE CAR LOAD

Greedy Buyers Bid High For Crop—Farmers Holding For Top Price.

Sherman Wagener, a prominent fruit grower of Flora Vista, N. M., who spent yesterday in Albuquerque, said that San Juan county would come to the front this year with a large crop of apples the same as usual. All other varieties of fruit are short, but the apple crop is a good one. He figures that the crop of the San Juan valley alone will amount to 150 car loads. The quality is first class and buyers are on the ground already offering $1.50 a box and box themselves. All the grower has to do is to gather the apples and pile them on the ground in the orchard. Very few of the farmers are selling at that price, however, most of them believing that the price will go out of sight, so to speak.

Farmington will send a few down to the fair to make the mouths of the fair visitors water and at the same time take a little prize money offered by the association. San Juan county has succeeded in taking the first prize for apples at the territorial fair for several years past and will carry the prize again this year as it is the only locality in the territory that has any apples at all.

Mr. Wagener says that the people up in that part of the country have given up the idea of one man trying to farm 150 acres of land. They find that they have better success farming ten acres well instead.

Mr. Wagener was a passenger for Santa Fe last night, in company with C. V. Safford, the territorial traveling auditor.

At the Tent Show.

The New company, the largest repertoire company in the western territory will produce Under the Lion's Paw, sensational melodrama tonight in their mammoth waterproof tent located on Gold avenue. The company carries 22 people headed by Miss Day Dayao, late of Richard Carles Spring Chicken Co. The drama tonight serves to introduce 9 big musical acts and specialties.

This company comes highly recommended by the press and public of other cities where they have been playing. As the company is new to our local theatregoers, it has been deemed advisable to admit all ladies tonight absolutely free with or without escort. The show starts promptly at 8:15 p. m.
